Message from the Dean
Faculty of Humanities and Social Sciences,
KhonKaen University, THAILAND

On behalf of the Faculty of Humanities and Social Sciences, KhonKaen University, I would like to express a sincere welcome to all of you from all around the world to the 15th International Conference on Humanities and Social Sciences (IC-HUSO) 2019.

The International Conference on Humanities and Social Sciences (IC-HUSO) 2019: Humanities and Social Sciences towards Environment is the 14th annual international conference held by the Faculty of Humanities and Social Sciences, Khon Kaen University. It is jointly organized by (1) the Faculty of Humanities and Social Sciences, KhonKaen University, (2) the Faculty of Urban and Environmental Economics and Management, National Economics University, Hanoi, Vietnam, (3) Jusuf Kalla School of Government, Universitas Muhammadiyah Yogyakarta, Indonesia, (4) Universitas Muhammadiyah Yogyakarta, Indonesia, (5) Faculty of Liberal Arts, Prince of Songkla University, (6) Institute of ASEAN Studies, Uttaradit Rajabhat University, (7) Center for Research on Plurality in the Mekong Region, (8) Research Group on Wellbeing and Sustainable Development, and (9) Mindanao State University - Iligan Institute of Technology, Philippines.

The goals of this conference are to provide both national and international academics the opportunity to share their works, exchange ideas, and form networks in humanities and social sciences for challenge, equity, and responsibility.

This year conference is dedicated to cover a wide spectrum of themes related to “Humanities, Social Sciences, and Environment.” The conference brings together scholars from various countries to present and exchange break-through ideas relating to humanities, social sciences, and environment. Particular discussion will be on how we, human, take concrete actions for reasserting our global commitment in order to sustain the healthy world as we are moving to human welling and economic development.

The conference is composed of 9 tracks divided into 38 sessions, tackles important topic related to Humanities, Social Sciences, and Environment. The presentations cover a wide array of topics including language and literature, philosophy and religion, culture, sociology and anthropology, social development, public administration, media, information and communication, and education in humanities and social sciences. I am sure that each one of you will identify subjects of interest and will benefits from many fruitful and enriching discussions.

The response for the conference has been overwhelming. We are glad to receive submissions from 12 countries all over the world, and 162 papers will be presented at this conference. Outstanding papers will be selected to be published in the Humanities and Social Sciences Journal and Journal of Mekong Societies.

In this program book, you will find the conference program, the list of the articles, and the abstracts of presentations as well as a CD which is the electronic proceedings of the conference containing accepted full papers.

Ladies and gentlemen, I wish to use this opportunity to express my most sincere thank to our important guest speaker, to Dr. Manfred Hutter, for his valuable talk on the topic “HOW and WHY do we study “other” religions in the age of globalisation? Coping with fundamentalism, religious pluralism and loss of institutionalisation.” I strongly believe that that we will gain insight into knowledge on how we move forward to address climate and biodiversity challenges in order to sustain economic development and human wellbeing across generations.

I would like to thank the IC-HUSO 2019 organizing committee members for their passion and dedication in ensuring this international conference a success. Also, please let me express my sincere thanks to all co-host institutions for their unprecedented support. I am also indebted to the Panel of Reviewers, Technical Session Chairs, Sponsors and all other staff members who extended unconditional support to make this event a success, despite tremendous pressure created by limitations in time and human resources.

Finally, I would also like to thank all delegations, guest speakers, presenters, and participants who have come all the way from different parts of the world to join us today. Your presence here today is of great significance to us.

Thank you for making this conference a great success. I do hope that all of our contribution will lead to more challenge, equity and responsibility in our country, the Association of Southeast Asian Nations, and the globe.

(Associate Professor KulthidaTuamsuk, Ph.D.)
Dean, Faculty of Humanities and Social Sciences
